From the President's Saddlebag

December and another year is behind. There were a lot of changes this year - Lionbergers moved to Montana, and the Bruce's seem to be following in stages and are a way down the road from Bernie and Sherrie.

Along with the sad changes came some good ones. We, as a club have picked up a lot of new, hard working members. Some who have stepped up to take office and others who have skills needed to move the chapter forward for years to come.

Our mission is to keep trails and trail systems open to the use of riding and pack stock. Though there are challenges for the future with money changes in the government. If we stick to our guns and do our part, we, as a part of this great land, will be riding long after us OLD folks hang up our spurs. If you can bring a youngster with you this next year, let's ride.

I want to thank everyone who took part this year and wish you a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a very HAPPY NEW YEAR. I am looking forward to a great 2011 with our horses and mules and some great rides and programs.

Boots and Saddles boys and girls, get um ready for Spring! ~ Bob

PANHANDLE BACK COUNTRY HORSEMEN CHRISTMAS PARTY DECEMBER 4, 2010 MINUTES

President Bob Williams started the Awards presentation at 7:10 PM. As this was the Christmas Party everyone agreed to dispense with the reading of the November minutes and other business. Additionally, there will be no December Board of Directors meeting. The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in January.

Bob Williams announced that there is a show at 7 PM on the Idaho public TV channel about Idaho and canyons, the date is December 5th.

Bob showed a coloring book by the Idaho Horse Council which they will use as a fund raiser for grants and scholarships. Bob also reported that Idaho got stimulus money this year for trails.

The new officers for 2011 are: President-Bob Williams; Vice President- Angela Parsons; Secretary-Debbie Samovar; Treasure-David Rousher. Board of Directors are: Jill Reineccius, Bill Clarke, Karen Kimball, and Marilyn Rousher. As Perry Saathoff wants to take some time off, there will not be an Executive Director in 2011. State Board of Directors are: Karen Kimball and Marilyn Rousher. Other directors are: Public Lands-Jerry Shriner; Education-Terry Sverdsten; BCHI Foundation Director-Joni Lueck. Bob asked that the next time we see Angela, Jill and Bill to thank them for stepping up and taking part in directing our chapter.

Certificates of appreciation were passed out to the 2010 officers and directors with Bob presenting gifts for their service of an LED Headlight that straps on your head. This was inspired by Bernie and Sherri Lionberger who got lost on the trail and had to use the light from their cell phones to see their way back.

Trail boss awards were presented to: Jim Kimball and Al Linscott for the Compass and GPS training; Bob Williams for the Fish Trap Trail Ride; George Miller and Terry Sverdsten for the Chainsaw Training; Marian Crumb for the Farragut Trail Ride; Les Erickson for the Marie Creek Clearing; Perry and Gina Saathoff for the Tune-up Clinic; Jerry and Diane Shriner for the Remount Ride; Bob Williams and Gene Bruce for the Packing Clinic; Joni Lueck, Bea Christopherson and Karen Kimball for the 4th of

Subj: National historic trails horse accessible and good for trail riding

Hi, I am copying several people knowledgeable about National Scenic and Historic Trails, as well as equestrians, in hopes they can provide some good answers or leads to specific trails.

American Trails Magazine and website editor

In a message dated 12/20/10 4:08:24 PM, darley@dcncreative.com writes:

Hi Stewart,
I host and produce the Emmy winning PBS travel show Equitrekking and also write for several magazines. I'm writing an article for True West magazine about historic trails where you can ride horses. I was on your website and was wondering if you or anyone within your organization had particular knowledge about which National Historic Trails were horse accessible and good for trail riding.

I'm happy to speak over the phone to provide more information as well.
Best wishes,
Darley

ID Parks and Rec has developed a mapping web page that uses BLM and USFS and other GIS data that will map open trails and roads and their designation. It's kinda sorta similar to our Hunt Planner.

It offers users to zoom in and see trails or allows them to do a search on a known name or number of a trail. There is also an export feature that will take a selected trail and export it to Google Earth. It takes some practice to get used to it, but check it out.

Draft Omnibus Lands Bill

From: Dennis Dailey ,Senior Advisor Wilderness, Recreation & Trails

The bill contains:

A proposal for a suitability study for Camp Hale in Colorado to determine if 200,000 Acres White River and San Isabel NFs should be designated as a National Park.

Proposed Wilderness:

Organ Mtn-Desert Peaks Wilderness (New Mexico):

Aden Lava Flow – 27,650 AC

Broad Canyon – 13,900 Ac

Cinder Cone – 16950 Ac

Organ Mtn – 19,400 Ac

Potrillo Mtn – 125.850 Ac

Robledo Mtn – 16,950 Ac

Sierra De Las Uvas – 11,100 Ac

Whitethorn – 9,600 Ac

Also includes National Conservation Areas (to conserve, protect and enhance for benefit and enjoyment)

Alpine Lakes Wilderness Addition (Washington)

Devils Staircase Wilderness (Oregon)

Rio Grande del Norte Conservation Area (Taos City New Mexico), also contains:

Cerro Del Yuta Wilderness 13,420 Ac

Rio San Antonio Wilderness 8,000 Ac

In addition it contains a couple of National Monuments, National Heritage Areas, and Wild and Scenic Rivers.

An interesting provision in the bill (Subtitle B – National Forest Insect and Disease Authorities) would "ensure that adequate emphasis is placed on the mitigation of hazards posed by landscape-scale epidemics of bark beetles and other insects and diseases" and "help focus resources within areas characterized by landscape-scale insect or disease epidemics ..." in the 13 western states (including Alaska). This might provide some help in mitigating the massive downfall on our National Forest trail system.

Rigging for Trail Work Manual

Hi folks, this is John Nelson in Mancos, Colorado. I'm contacting you to see if you or anyone you know might use stock for rigging work on trails, doing trail maintenance and construction, bridge work, etc. An FS friend of mine, David Michael, whom I know some of you know, too, is writing a manual on rigging for trail work for the Forest Service, and is looking for any information you may have on how you might do rigging work. The manual is being published by the FS's Missoula Technology Development Center (MTDC). David's written or collaborated on a number of FS manuals in the past, especially crosscut saw stuff and others, and I think this new rigging manual he's working on will sure be handy. Here's what David told me about this project:

"After being at MTDC for almost three years they finally did a rough edit on my Rigging for Trail Work Manual manuscript I've been writing for almost 10 years. Yup you guessed it now it's on the fast track. Question for you. With your connections with BHC, do you know anyone who has used draft animals for trail rigging work. This could be ground skidding of logs, using an animal to pull a line down the trail thus raising buckets of rock from the creek below or any number of other types of projects? I've done a little, or been around a little, but wanted to talk with a more knowledgeable person."

So my question to you folks is do you or anyone you know do rigging work? Myron, Biff, Dennis, Darrell, Colorado Trail, Southwest Conservation Corps folks, others, are you folks doing this, or do you know someone who does? If so, could you provide me any information you might have on it and I'll get it to David for possible inclusion in the manual? Could you pass this on to people you know who may have information? I'd sure appreciate it, because I think the manual might be even better as a result of your input. Although he's being humble about it, David's pretty darned good with rigging, as some of you know. I've seen him do some really neat stuff with a horse or mule while constructing trails or building bridges, but I also know that he knows you folks probably have some good information on the topic, too.

Anyway, if you are interested in this and have some information for David - or if you have other contacts for me for this, I'd appreciate hearing from you. Given the fast track for the project, can I hear from you within a few weeks - the sooner would be better, if possible.

Thanks in advance for any help you might provide with this. I hope everyone's well and enjoying the holidays. We've been getting hay in here, gathering and weaning cows, shipping, hunkering down for winter, etc. but I have to tell you that I'm already looking into April, thinking Spring's just around the corner, and that we'll be back on the trails!

John
